Proceedings of the Senate and House Yesterday.

The Bill to Prohibit Bond Issues Vigorously Attacked by Senator Hill—Conference Report on the River and Harbor Bill Adopted by the House—The Bill Denounced as Extravagant by Messrs. Hepburn and Dockery.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The bill to prohibit the issue of bonds is now before the Senate with the prospect of a final vote on it next Monday. The objection to the measure was withdrawn to-day and by the decisive vote of 34 to 20 the Senate adopted the motion of Mr. Butler, author of the bill to proceed with it. The debate on the measure proceeded throughout the day and was at times very animated.

Mr. Hill attacked the bill as a barefaced attempt at repudiation, by an indirect cutting-off of the only means existing for a repeal of the greenbacks. Mr. Sherman, Mr. Gray, Mr. Hawley and Mr. Lodge spoke in opposition to the bill, and Messrs. Mills, Butler, Allen, Stewart and Clarke for it.

The tariff question came in for incidental consideration and Senators Sherman, George and Gray expressed the view that it would be a disgrace if Congress adjourned without enacting a law to increase the revenues.

When Mr. Butler asked for a vote on the anti-bond bill on Monday, Mr. Hill, from whom the chief opposition was expected, gave his assent. An agreement was not reached, however, the understanding being that it would be made to-morrow for a vote Monday.

Mr. Butler, early in the session, moved to take up his bond resolution, which is as follows: "That the issuance of interest-bearing bonds of the United States for any purpose whatever, without further authority of Congress, is hereby prohibited."

Mr. Hill had remained standing from the time Mr. Butler made his first effort to proceed and now the New York Senator interposed the objection that this was too important a question to be considered "without a quorum."

This was the first evidence of a renewal of obstruction. The ringing of Senate bells brought Senators hurriedly to the chamber and forty-nine, four more than a quorum, responded.

Mr. Butler's motion was then put to a vote without further obstruction. Mr. Hill demanding the yeas and nays. The motion was adopted 34 to 20.

Mr. Hill secured the floor as soon as the vote was announced but yielded temporarily for some minor routine business.

Mr. Mills soon demanded the "regular order" and Mr. Hill began his speech in opposition. He spoke calmly at first, gradually warming in emphasis and feeling.

"The alleged crime of '73 will be as nothing," said Mr. Hill, "to the crime which will be perpetrated if this bill passes and becomes a law."

"It is a bold proposition to repeal the resumption act, to repeal the only law which exists for the redemption of the paper currency of the country. By declaring that for no purpose whatever shall money be raised on bonds this measure is in effect a repeal of the act of '73. It is a startling proposition. It will not solve the silver question. It will simply put in peril the finances of the country."

The Senator spoke derisively of this "self confessed Populist measure." It might pass this body, he said, but no Senator believed it could pass the House, no Senator believed it could receive the approval of the President.

"This is plain, bold, open repudiation," exclaimed Mr. Hill, his words ringing through the chamber. "Repudiation is what this measure means. The dishonor of your paper money is what this measure means. The dishonor of your paper money is what this measure means. The dishonor of your paper money is what this measure means."

The Clams Turned the Tables on the Mountaineers.

The National League Tail-enders Showing the Champions How to Play Ball. Portsmouth Was Lucky—State League Leaders Lose to Richmond—Philadelphia Lost Their Ninth Straight Game.

Norfolk won the game in the ninth inning, and this is how they did it. Coons, who was twirling the sphere for the locals let down in the seventh. He gave Ramp his base on balls, then Blankenship, McFarlan and Bowerman hit safely in succession, and three men chased each other across the rubber. This gave Norfolk a lead of one run. Both teams were blanked in the eighth, in the ninth, Chesbro hit safely, stole second and scored on Cockman's single. Cockman sprinted from the first to the second base and crossed the plate on Whitehill's single to center field. The rotters and cranks went wild with enthusiasm. This gave the locals a lead of one run, but their hopes were short-lived. McFarlan cracked out a nice little single and scored on Bowerman's three bagger to deep centre. The latter made the winning run on Ballentine's single to left field.

The game was of the heart-disease kind, though the locals were in the lead up to the seventh inning, but the margin was too small to make the cranks feel safe. Both teams played fast ball, and the features were the batting of Bowerman, who had a single, two doubles and a triple to his credit, the home run of Chesbro and the line drive by Bowerman to Whitehill, who pulled it down with his left hand.

The locals started their run-getting in the second. Wrigley went to first on Langford's error; Williams bunted safely, but was called out at second on Sweeney's easy one to Ramp; Wrigley scored on Chesbro's out to centre, and Sweeney crossed the plate on Cockman's single. The locals were egged the next three innings.

In the sixth Williams trotted to first on four balls and scored on Chesbro's home run over the left field fence. The last two runs were made in the ninth. The Clams got in the game in the first inning. Bowerman singled and scored on Turner's three-bagger. In the fourth Turner led off with another triple and chased home on Langford's out to right field. The other five runs were made in the seventh and ninth innings. Score:

The Proposed N. & W. Extension—College Commencement Exercises.

ROGERSVILLE, Tenn., May 22.—Special—Much interest is manifested in East Tennessee in the reports of the extension of the Norfolk and Western railroad from Bristol to Knoxville. The Norfolk and Western has many friends in this part of the country who would be glad to welcome its extension South-west.

The Holston Valley, which it would traverse, westward from Bristol, is one of the largest and most fertile in the South. Besides, it is rich in minerals, especially in marbles and all agricultural products. There are no long valleys in the South so broad, so long and so fertile that have no railroad. Moreover, it would be a shorter route from Bristol to Knoxville. The right of way can be secured at a nominal price, and it is believed that the counties and towns would contribute to its construction.

The commencement exercises of the forty-sixth session of the Rogersville Synodical College will begin on Friday, May 29, at 7 p. m., with an entertainment by the primary department. On Sunday morning the baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. Geo. Summey, D. D., chancellor of the Southwest-ern Presbyterian University. On Tuesday morning, June 2, the commencement exercises proper will begin with a literary address by Rev. J. R. Herndon.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

Reaction in Prices and Falling Off in Bank Clearings.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say: The reactionary tendency in prices, shrinkages in railroad earnings, the falling off in bank clearings and the fact that the present constitutes the beginning of the between seasons period, include the more conspicuous features of the general business situation. On the other hand business failures have fallen off sharply
